Earths Elements was born in 2006 when Hem Rai, owner and Nepal native, felt the need to share the fascinating culture of his home village here in the United States. It was his love for people that inspired him to create Earths Elements. He was a Sherpa, navigating people on treks throughout the rough terrain of the Himalayan Region. Hem's mission is to help people connect to the Earth with his passion for travel and exploration. Today, Hem owns and operates seven stores throughout beautiful Southern California.

Luisa Jackson, owner and co-founder, lead the evolution of Earths Elements from a small family-owned business to a multifaceted corporation with expanded locations, online, and wholesale businesses. She joined the team in 2017 and used her vision and experience working in the aerospace industry to help drive these new initiatives, processes, and procedures for the organization. She has transformed the stores to a more holistic lifestyle experience.

With the growing search for our connection to who we are, we at Earth's Elements are here to empower you with the invaluable source of mother nature's gifts to support you on your magical journey! We are dedicated to create a conscious business, one that has a purpose beyond profit. When you buy from us, you are helping our employees meet their financial obligations and supporting communities in the place where it all began; Nepal.

Thank you for being a part of the Earths Elements family!
